

Not every packet is captured into its own VPC Flow log record. However, even with sampling, log record captures can be quite large.

You can now balance your traffic visibility and storage cost needs by adjusting the following aspects of logs collection.

For more information, refer to the documentation:

<https://cloud.google.com/vpc/docs/using-flow-logs#log-sampling>